Abstract

The invention relates to the field of computer analysis of text documents. More specifically it relates to the field of artificially intelligent systems capable of analyzing responses to Request for Quotation (RFQ).